Relax and Energise with Tai Chi Chuan

Stress is the cause of major health problems today, to combat it people try all sorts of things and Sing Ong Tai Chi is the perfect combination of fitness therapy and calming influence for people leading busy, active lives.

Tai Chi is an ancient Chinese martial art that combines mental focus with deliberate, relaxed, graceful movements that are gentle on the joints and does not unduly stress the body.

Scientists have reported that regular practice of Tai Chi can lower blood pressure, improve bone density, strength, agility, circulation and balance.

Tai chi is catching on in a big way in New Zealand, and the best thing about tai chi is you'll find an eclectic bunch of people to train with, and learn to give and take in a positive, harmonious environment.

You'll train with instructor Hung Tra who has over 10 years experience in teaching Tai Chi. Sing Ong Tai Chi beginner's classes are held Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6.30pm to 7.30pm at Farm Cove Intermediate, Butley Rd, Howick. Ph 444 3889, 021 186 8158 or visit singongtaichi.com.

Happy with your current childcare arrangements?

Because of the low ratio of children in our home-based settings (maximum of four), the chance of cross-infection of common childhood illnesses is significantly reduced – and depending on the nature of the illness, children can generally still be cared for by their educator.
